

What If ...

Words and Music: Graeme Connors

What if Adam hadn't fancied women
What if Noah had built a leaky ark
What if Jesus had problems with his Father
What if Paul hadn't been that bright a spark
What if your Dad never knew your Mother
What if my folks had lived in Timbukto
What if you hadn't worn that little red dress
The night I first laid eyes on you

What if God never played with fire-crackers
What if Heaven was below and not above
What if Life never had a meaning
What if you and I never fell in love

What if Shakespeare had been slightly dyslexic
What if Newton hadn't seen that apple fall
What if Freud hadn't shared his little secret
What if Einstein had no sense of time at all
What if I'd been too shy to pop the question
What if you didn't read between the lines
What if we hadn't spent that night together
On a blanket underneath the pines

What if God never played with fire-crackers
What if Heaven was below and not above
What if Life never had a meaning
What if you and I never fell in love

What if Bach could've hung out with the Beatles
What If Buffett had no wind in his sail
What if Randy Newman finally got some airplay
What if John Prine was still delivering mail

What if God never played with fire-crackers
What if Heaven was below and not above
What if Life never had a meaning
What if you and I never fell in love
